

The Southern Tier Opportunity Coalition and The NYS Center of Excellence in Small Scale Systems Integration and Packaging

2008 Technology Awards

The Southern Tier Opportunity Coalition (STOC) and the Small Scale Systems Integration and Packaging Center (S³IP) each promote technology initiatives in the Southern Tier. In 2008, these two organizations joined together to recognize outstanding technology leaders in the community. The 2008 Technology Awards were presented by Bahgat Sammakia, S³IP Director, and Diana Bendtz, President, STOC, Board of Directors, made at the S³IP annual dinner on November 12, 2008.

Inventor of the Year: Voya Markovich, Senior Vice President and CTO, Endicott Interconnect Technologies

Technology Entrepreneur of the Year: Jay McNamara, President and CEO of Endicott Interconnect Technologies

Technology Mentor of the Year: Mario Bolanos-Avila, Research Director, Semiconductor Packaging Technology, Texas Instruments.

Photos: Awardees being presented with awards by Diana Bendtz and Bahgat Sammakia. From left to right: Voya Markovich, Jeff Knight (accepting award on behalf of Jay McNamara) and Mario Bolanos-Avila.